thing we would not leave home without. In Barcelona, the traditional adult guides left us cold. Mission Barcelona guided us through La Rambla and even led us to a gorgeous square the adults never would have found. I found the series to help engage the girls in some rather daunting museums and churches and would recommend the series to anyone traveling with children. 5 of 5 people found the following review helpful. Great Guide for the Family By John A. Santiago This series is so great for the kiddos. We had a day in Barcelona, and this was such a wonderful book for us and the three kids (5-13 years old). It was good for them and us parents. My kids didn't play the points game too much, but they checked stuff off the list. This book turned my 13 year old into a tour guide while my wife and I held hands walking down La Rambla. Awesome! 5 of 5 people found the following review helpful. Ideal travel companion for grade school kids! By lbsells We took our 8 and 9 year old children to Europe for the first time this year, and used this as our guide in Barcelona. We allowed the kids to be 'in charge' of a day with this book. What a fantastic resource! Our daughter read the book several times before we left for our journey, and when we got to Barcelona, she was never off of her 'mission.' Both of them were eyes-wide-open looking for items in the book, which made everything more interesting for them (and then we didn't have any whining about more churches or sightseeing). Highly, highly recommend and we just wish there had been one of these for Madrid as well! Please write more!
