I regretted not buying something similar in the souvenir shop of Alcobaca when in Portugal, so I was happy to find this. Nice photos. This is the location of Pedro and Inez. Very famous Portuguese story. The place is awesome, if you ever get a chance to visit!

Founded in 1153, the Abbey became the biggest church in Portugal and one of the most powerful of the Cistercian order. Among its many treasures are the mediaeval tombs of D. Pedro I and Inês de Castro, and sixteenth century pottery by the monks. Internationally acknowledged for the austerity and purity of its architecture, the Abbey became a World Heritage Site in 1985. The Abbey's art and architecture is explored in detail in this guide, with colour photographs, drawings and plans.
